

Resources and Materials

Here are some materials that I recommend for you to have when you work with your child in the car. You can coordinate with other families that will take Driver's Ed later in the year to split the cost and share these items. (You can find all these on Amazon.)

Magnetic "student driver" signs for the car you will be using:

A passenger's [aka instructor's] rear view mirror:

Blind spot mirrors:

...And maybe... 😊

In addition, there may be some of you that wish to pay a driving school for additional 1 on 1 behind the wheel instruction for your child to supplement your own in-vehicle instruction. Lessons will usually cost between $55 and $75 for a 45-minute session (most will pick-up and drop off from you home). Here are 4 Driving Schools in our area that offer lessons:

<https://www.allcaredrivingschool.com>

<https://www.allcaredrivingschool.com/>

<https://bellautoschool.com/>

<https://www.northshoreautoschool.com/>