

Over 40 POB Students Display Artwork at ASA All-County Art Exhibition

The Art Supervisors Association recently hosted its annual All-County Art Exhibition, showcasing the artistic talents of students from across Nassau County. More than 40 students from grades K-12 were selected by their art teachers to represent Plainview-Old Bethpage in the prestigious event.

Hosted by the East Meadow School District on March 10, the exhibition featured a diverse range of artwork, including paintings, drawings, sculptures and mixed media pieces. Among the talented exhibitors was Brett Rosenbaum, a senior from Plainview-Old Bethpage John F. Kennedy High School, who was awarded a scholarship in recognition of his outstanding artistic achievement. Brett was selected by his high school art teachers for this honor.

The ASA is a professional organization dedicated to promoting quality art instruction at all educational levels and providing a platform for ideas relating to art and art education. The All-County Art Exhibition serves as an opportunity for students to showcase their creativity and talent on a countywide stage.

The district extends congratulations to all participating students and commends them for their exceptional contributions to the visual arts community.
