

Plainview-Old Bethpage JFK High School Welcomes Fashion Design Alum Ellyn Park for Inspiring Guest Presentation

POBJFK High School's fashion classes had the privilege of hosting Ellyn Park, an alumna currently studying fashion design at Drexel University, for a special guest presentation on June 4th. The event was organized by Rosemarie Elder, the school's esteemed fashion teacher.

Ellyn Park, who graduated from JFK High School and excelled in Mrs. Elder's fashion class, returned to share her impressive college portfolio with current students. She showcased her innovative designs and discussed her enriching internship experience in Korea.

The students were captivated by Ellyn's journey from JFK High School to Drexel University and her exploration of international fashion design. Her visit provided valuable insights into the world of fashion design and inspired aspiring designers in the classroom.

"We are thrilled to have Ellyn return to JFK High School and share her experiences and achievements with our students," Elder said. "Her journey is a testament to the dedication and creativity that we nurture in our fashion program. We hope her story motivates our students to pursue their passions and strive for excellence in their future endeavors."

POBJFK High School extends its heartfelt thanks to Ellyn Park for her time and willingness to give back to her alma mater. The school looks forward to meaningful events that connect current students and successful alumni.
