

POBJFKHS Mathletes Have Strong Showing at County Math Tournament

Contest Brings Together Best Math Students in the Region

PLAINVIEW, NEW YORK (February, 2025)— The Plainview-Old Bethpage John F. Kennedy High School Mathletes team had a strong showing at the Nassau County Interscholastic Math League (NCIML) Math Tournament on February 7th, competing against schools from across the region. The team's two lower division squads placed 9th and 11th out of 38 teams.

Individually, freshman Roy Lu placed 10th out of 61 students in his division, while sophomore Nahum Yoo earned 13th place out of 126 students in his division. The NCIML Math Tournament brings together the brightest math students in the region to compete in challenging problem-solving events.

"We are incredibly proud of our students for their hard work and achievements at this year's tournament," said Mathletes and Math Honor Society advisor Mr. Michael Randazzo. "Their success reflects their commitment to excellence and the strong support of our school community."

For more information about the Plainview-Old Bethpage Central School District, please visit the District's website at www.pobschools.org. Exciting activities happening throughout the District and programs celebrating student achievement can also be found on the District's Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/pobschools/>.

The POBJFKHS Mathletes team had a strong showing at the Nassau County Interscholastic Math League Tournament this February.

The region's brightest math students demonstrate strategy and problem solving.