

Superintendent's Highlight September 20, 2019

Towards the end of the summer our lunches became much healthier, thanks to the Pasadena garden. We were amazed at the volume and variety of the crop produced from the tiny seeds planted by the students last June.

The Pasadena fourth-grade farmers harvested their vegetables and provided them to families to take home at the Family Picnic this past Friday. The garden was established last year by the graduated fourth graders as a part of the Children's Sangha Project funded by the PTA and donations.

Last year, the students planted radishes, lettuce, basil, chocolate mint, green beans, wax beans, cabbage, soybeans, marigolds and sunflowers. The sunflower seeds were a gift from the POBMS students.

The current fourth graders will continue to harvest the rest of the vegetables and prepare the beds for winter. In the spring, they will start new vegetables from seeds and start the process all over again. The garden has been a pure delight, and the students will love watching the life cycle of the vegetables and flowers as they grow.

Everything blossoms in our POB Schools!! # POBproud.
