

Pasadena Elementary School Celebrates Ribbon-cutting Ceremony for New Addition

Pasadena Elementary School proudly celebrated the ribbon-cutting ceremony for its new addition on May 14th. The new facilities include a music room, art room, instrumental room, and indoor/outdoor bathrooms, significantly enhancing the resources available for students' creative and educational development.

Before the ceremonial ribbon cutting by Board of Education Vice President Seth Greenberg, attendees enjoyed a delightful performance by members of the fourth grade chorus, led by music teacher Ms. Emma Catalano. The event was attended by a diverse group including administration, staff, teachers, members of the Board of Education, PTA, parents, and students, all eager to witness the unveiling of the new facilities.

"Today we celebrate not only the addition of new classrooms, but the boundless opportunities they represent," Greenberg said. "Within these walls creativity will flourish, young minds will dream and friendships will be forged. This addition is a testament to our community's commitment to enhancing the educational experience for our children."

The new music room and instrumental room will provide dedicated spaces for students to explore and develop their musical talents, while the art room will offer a vibrant environment for artistic expression. The addition of indoor/outdoor bathrooms will further improve the convenience and functionality of the school facilities.

Plainview-Old Bethpage Schools Board of Education Vice President Seth Greenberg cut the ribbon with students to open the new addition at Pasadena Elementary School on May 14.

The new art room at Pasadena Elementary School.

The new music room at Pasadena Elementary School.

The new instrumental room at Pasadena Elementary School.